

ABSTRACT

The present invention is an integrated optical switch, comprising a switching element and an optical detector in communication with the switching element. The integrated optical switch includes an optical detector of amorphous semiconductor material on a semiconductor

5 waveguide. Optical header information is detected and interpreted, and the switch is operated according to the header information.

099744-1000
T0600T-TE4E/660